

I'm outraged that consideration is being given to overturning the New Jersey do not call law because it is stricter than the federal law. A home phone is essential but I see no reason to allow solicitation over that phone if it is unwelcome. When I am at home I should have the expectation that if I have opted not to be bothered by solicitors I will not be. New Jersey's law provides that assurance to me.